How it all began....

After 6 years in the Navy, Ron decided to fulfill his lifelong dream of owning his own business. Without too much research, he settled on pizza since it is popular and he ate it all the time anyway. After much experimentation (and a lot of sampling), Ron and his mother Barbara were ready to open Pizza Etc. inside the old Bread Basket convenience store in Colbert.

Opening on a Tuesday night (May 10th, 1994), they sold two pizzas (and were ecstatic). Over time, with a strong commitment to quality and customer service, business increased and employees were added. Eventually, Ron's name was added to the business name.

In September '99, the business was relocated to Danielsville (inside the old Golden Pantry, next to the new Golden Pantry and Vision Video). A dining room was added as well as a much larger kitchen and prep area.

In the summer of '03, a new chapter began with a second store located at the intersection of Hwy 72 and Old Hull Road next to the Quick Spot in Hull, GA.

In 2005, the business was renamed 'Paparoni's' to keep a vow made many years ago, as well as provide for possible future expansion.

Over the years, Ron has employed many young men and women and has enjoyed helping to prepare them for the future challenges of life. (It's not a job, it's a way of life!)

A devoted family man, Ron is happily married to Brenda and has seven little future pizza-makers (3 girls and 4 boys)!

We appreciate your patronage and hope that your pizza is the best you've ever tasted!
